POL'S

Folks who like high class vaudeville entertainment will do well to see the big bill that will be shown for the last time at Pol's this evening. There are many excellent features in both the vaudeville and photoplay program, and capacity audiences have attested their approval at every performance. The vaudeville bill includes: "The Headliner," an unusual comedy of stage life; The Great Howard, in a ventriloquial novelty; The Five Harmonie Girls, in a beautiful musical offering; Robinson & McShayne, in a "black-face" oddity; and Frank Hartley, comedy juggler.

William Farnum, the film star, is featured in the six-part photodrama "The Fires of Conscience" and Pathe's Pictorial News is also shown.

Elise Jane Wilson in the five part drama "The Evil Women Do" will be the leading feature in the 12-reel program tomorrow evening. Pol's orchestra will play.

LYRIC

"Texas," the comedy drama which is drawing large audiences this week to the Lyric theatre, treats of a phase of life which has been a favorite one with dramatists and yet Jane Mauplin Feigl, the author, has found an entirely new mode of treatment which accounts for the fact that "Texas" stands pre-eminent among the productions of that class. She tells a wholesome story in a plain, homely way. There are no high-flown ethics to bewilder one but it is a real unvarnished tale of ranch life which everyone can appreciate. Of course there is a love story there, but it is a love story in which the sincerity does not ring true. There is comedy but it is spontaneous and unlike the comedy, found so frequently in the drama, where one has to force himself to laugh. In short, "Texas" has something about it so that it appeals to everyone. It wins applause from all parts of the house and, when the show is over, the average person votes the night well spent and takes away with him something that is well worth remembering.

"Texas" was never given a better production than its present one. Jane Weir has the role of "Texas" West, and she plays this charming part delightfully. Louis Thiel, who was the "Okla-homa" in the original production, is playing the same role this season with all his old time versatility.

PLAZA

There are laughs in abundance to be found on the vaudeville program presented at the Plaza for the last time today and there is plenty of artistic entertainment as well, as any who have already seen Hall's Musical Minstrels, the head-liner on the bill, will readily admit.

Hall's Musical Minstrels is composed of five skilled instrumentalists and vocal soloists and their efforts are a real treat while sufficient comedy is injected to suit the tastes of the most fastidious.

Mumford and Thompson have a comedy singing and talking skit that is too funny for mere words, while Valyda and the Brazilian Nuts, a fascinatingly pretty young woman with a charming voice and two clever darkies, are a hit at every appearance in their dainty offering of song, piano and dance.

The Hennings in a clever juggling diversion complete a most sumptuous program of varieties.

"The Jungle Child," a stirring dramatic photoplay of the Triangle brand, starring Dorothy Dalton and Howard Hickman, and "She Loved a Sailor," a Keystone two-part comedy, with Harry McCoy and a score of favorites complete the attractions.

Sunday night's feature attraction will be "A Woman's Fight," a remark-

BY DIRECT WIRE FROM THE FIELD

SHUBERT, NEW HAVEN.

Starting Monday, Oct. 16, and continuing for the entire week, the brand new Winter Garden extravaganza, "The Show of Wonders," will be presented for the first time on any stage at the Shubert theatre, New Haven. Following the week's engagement the company, which numbers over 150 people, will proceed at once to New York, where its premier is scheduled for the following week at the Winter Garden, thus the New Haven showing will be the only one in advance of its Metropolitan premier.

The Messrs. Shubert have secured a most notable cast of principals for their latest and greatest production, among them being many established Winter Garden favorites, as well as many newcomers who have proven their worth on the vaudeville and legitimate stage. Heading the long list of entertainers are McIntyre and Heath, two of the most famous black face comedians this country has ever known. Eugene and Willie Howard, the bright shining stars in the "Passing Show of 1915"; George Monroe, Walter Kelly of "Virginia Judge" fame, Tom Lewis, John T. Murray, Clayton and White, James Watt, George Baldwin, Sidney Phillips, Daisie Irving, Marilyn Miller, Grace Fisher, Mabel Elaine, Marie Lavarre, Eleanor Brown, Olga Hempstone, Doris Lloyd and others, not to mention the big chorus of charming Winter Garden girls, who are always such an important feature of these shows.

"The Show of Wonders" will be in two acts and 29 scenes, many of which are of a gorgeousness never before approached in theatrical entertainments. The book and lyrics are by Harold Atteridge, and the musical score, which contains many charming melodies, is by Otto Motzan, Sigmund Romberg and Herman Timberg.
